Can the leopard change its spots? Or Pakistan cease to be a sponsor of jihadist terror? Or China as the backer of Pakistan? The answer to all the three questions is in the negative, for just as the genetic code of a beast cannot be changed, the nature of nation-states cannot be altered. Especially if they emerge as two dangerous rogue states, exporting terror (in the case of Pakistan) and disease (Covid-19) to all parts of the world. No, we can't change their nature, but we can force them to behave themselves. The world has seen enough of Islamic terror flowing out of Pakistan to be fooled by its lies that it is checking jihadists (though Pakistan did succeed in convincing the Financial Action Task Force or FATF to remove it from the "grey list" in October last year). It is to the credit of India's foreign policy that it managed to oust over 14 out of the 15 members of the UN Security Council to its side, thus forcing China to give up the "technical" hold on the designation of Lahore-based Lashkar-e-Taiba's deputy chief Abdul Rehman Makki as a global terrorist. Makki, on whose head the US Justice Department had put a bounty of $2 million, is brother-in-law to the designated terrorist and LeT chief Hafiz Saeed. Makki's expertise was raising money from the Middle East.

Indian diplomats' perseverance and persistence over Makki proved too much for China, which is a permanent UNSC member with veto power. In July 2022, China managed to put a technical hold on listing Makki as a global terrorist in the 1267 committee. New Delhi has another demand: listing the 26/11 murderer Sajjid Mir of LeT as a global terrorist by the same committee. It is a well-known fact that China has been shielding its ill-weathered friend Pakistan in the UNSC from India's actions, targeted at Islamic terror. For instance, China torpedoed the efforts to designate Masood Azhar as a global terrorist. Ditto with Hafiz Saeed's case. As blue-eyed boys of the Pakistani deep state, they have caused enough bloodshed in India; at the same time, however, they have also helped make Pakistan a beggar. This is the poverty and unemployment Minister Shehbaz Sharif now wants peace with India. In an interview with Dubai-based Al Arabiya TV, he said that his country has learned its lesson after three wars with India which "brought more misery, poverty and unemployment". Sharif went on to say, "My message to the Indian leadership and Prime Minister Modi is that let's sit down on the table and have serious and sincere talks to resolve our burning points like Kashmir."

Hold off: On UNSC sanctioning Abdul Rehman Makki as sanctioned terrorist

India has welcomed the international outcry over the designation of Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) deputy chief Abdul Rehman Makki as a sanctioned terrorist by the UN Security Council, after China withdrew the "technical hold" it had placed on the listing last year. Makki, the brother-in-law of 26/11 mastermind Hafiz Saeed, is on the most wanted lists of India and the United States for terror attacks in India, and support to terrorists in Pakistan. China's hold on the Makki listing process in June was one of five holds it placed on similar proposals against other wanted LeT/Jaish-e-Mohammad (JeM) terrorists based in Pakistan. It had led to an angry response from New Delhi, which accused Beijing of "double standards" on terrorism and "making a mockery" of UNSC counter-terror mechanisms. In that sense, China's decision to allow the listing is a win for India: this is the first time a listing proposal where India is a co-sponsor has been allowed to go through; and it is the first time a terrorist has been listed primarily for attacks in India, particularly in Kashmir, as most other terrorists listed for their al-Qaeda links and for attacks in other parts of the world. It is unclear what prompted China to relent, as it has continued to hold out despite the 14 other UNSC members agreeing to the listing. In 2019, China agreed to a decade-old demand from India to list JeM chief Masood Azhar only after

Microsoft to Amazon: Job cuts continue in tech industry in 2023

The tech industry's tough times are continuing in 2023 as well as more companies announce job cuts. The biggest name to join the list now includes Microsoft, which is reportedly planning to cut jobs in the engineering division. In India, too tech startups have continued with similar measures, with ShareChat being the latest to join the fray. Most technology companies blame the economic conditions for the crisis, though some companies have admitted that they hired too many people during the pandemic. There appears to be a correction of sorts taking place in the tech world which was once seen as a lucrative industry. Let's take a look at all the tech companies which have announced these measures and why. Microsoft job cuts to impact engineering division According to a Bloomberg report, Microsoft plans job cuts in key engineering divisions, though the exact number of people who will be impacted is not clear. A Business Insider report claims nearly a third of the company's staff will be sacked, while Sky News claimed 5 per cent of employees or nearly 10,000 jobs would be affected. The company's global workforce is around 200,000 workers and the Insider report is correct, then this could mean thousands of job cuts. The company had previously cut jobs in October and July 2022 and put a pause on new hires as well. But this latest round is expected to be more brutal. The job cuts are again linked to the worsening global macroeconomic conditions and an expected slowdown in demand for software and services.
