Two grievance systems: One question, opposite replies

Rajkot: The road to Rajkot-Ahmedabad six-lane highway is only getting longer by the day. And if you blamed the contractor for missing January 2020 deadline, the public grievance unit of PMO will prove you wrong. The reasons cited by the portal akin the delay to be an act of God! An executive engineer of the national highway division of the state government raised the grievance in the government's Centralized Public Grievance Redress and Monitoring System and was left with even more doubts than answers. Applicant Shailendrasinh Jadeja received a reply from CPGRAMS on August 3. It stated: "The progress (of the work on the highway) is delayed due to 'delay in forest permission, delay in shifting of religious structures and other utilities'." Wait, there's more! It further said, "Though the construction completion time was two years from the commencement, 'unprecedented Covid-19 induced pandemic hampered the progress. This delayed the process and the project overall'."

Interestingly, while the authority mentions that the reasons to showcase the circumstances were "out of their control", they neatly omit the very reasons they had themselves cited in an RTI reply to Jadeja only in January this year. As reported by earlier, in its reply to two RTI applications that Jadeja submitted in January, the authorities had then held the contractors responsible for the huge delay.

"Contractors are not responding to the notices issued by the national highway division of the roads and building department of the state government," it said, adding that they assigned the road work to two contractors.

In the RTI reply, the department had also admitted that "two contractors who were assigned the work for four sections of the highway, had defaulted in the work and only 40-50% of the work has been completed." It further mentioned that 75% road work was completed and work on 15 flyovers and underpasses too was done.

It, however, failed to mention that the total flyovers or underpass planned on this road were 35! In the termination notices awarded to one of the contractors — Sadbhav Engineering LTD — in December 2022, the R&B department had mentioned that the "contractor continued to perform poorly without taking any remedial measures to cure the default."

Anand collector suspended for misconduct

GANDHINAGAR: Anand district collector D S Gadhvi was suspended from his post on Wednesday on charges of misconduct and moral turpitude. In a separate order issued during the day, he government appointed Milind Bapna, the district development officer (DDO) of Anand, to assume the additional responsibilities of the collector.

A committee comprising five women officers, led by Sunaina Tomar, the ACS of the social justice and empowerment department, has been formed to investigate the matter. This committee is tasked with submitting its report to the state government within a month. The disciplinary action against Gadhvi was initiated after a video allegedly depicting him in a compromising position with a woman within his office went viral. The government reportedly verified the authenticity of the video before proceeding with the disciplinary measures against the 2008-batch promoted IAS officer.

However, it is important to note that The Times of India has not been able to independently verify the credibility of the video.

Government sources revealed that alongside the video clip, objectionable

WhatsApp conversations have also allegedly been brought to the attention of the authorities. It is reported that Gadhvi's phone will be sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory.

The five-member investigative committee consists of Sunaina Tomar; Mamta Verma, principal secretary, energy department; Manisha Chandra, secretary, rural development department; Deviben Pandya, a retired joint secretary officer; and Bhaktiben Shamal, a joint secretary level officer. Ashok Dave, an additional secretary-level officer, will serve as the member secretary of the committee.

It is noteworthy that Tomar, Verma, Chandra, and Dave were also part of the committee that investigated allegations of moral turpitude against IAS officer Gaurav Dahiya.

Flattened fencing remains a barrier to lion protection

AHMEDABAD: The forest department is celebrating World Lion Day 2023 with pomp, but it is dragging its feet on repairing the fencing along the railway track connecting Port Pipavav even two years after Cyclone Tauktae flattened it.

The 28km Pipavav-Rajula-Liliya-Savarkundla stretch has proved to be a killer for lions and cubs with many getting crushed under the goods trains going to Pipavav. The frequent accidents prompted the construction of fencing on this stretch as movements of 25-30 lions were frequently noticed between Rajula and Pipavav. The department took two years to repair 12 km of fencing while the work in the remaining 16 is only 'in progress.' It claims to have saved 129 lions in a year on this track by driving them away when a train approached. The other stretch is Savarkundla to Rajula where there is no fencing and lions are run over by trains. A senior forest officer of the Gireast division said, "The discussions on fencing this stretch began in 2015-16 but every thing is still on paper only. Passenger trains are not adhering to the speed limits." According to the standard operating procedure (SOP), the train speed should be less than 45 km per hour in the lion corridor outside the sanctuary area.
